Policy

101. As a matter of internal control, no individual will be authorized to have system permission to update employee records in the Workday Payroll System for both human resource (HR) and payroll data.
102. Any agency employee who has update authority to an agency owned and operated time and attendance application which interfaces data to Workday Payroll System is considered to have been assigned the Agency Payroll Partner security role in the Workday Payroll System. This security role allows for update access which includes the ability to create a time record for another employee; add, change, or delete hours to the time record of another employee; or enter any other transaction that would have an effect on the amount of money paid to another person. Employees with this level of access to the agency's owned time and attendance application shall not have a security role that allows for update access to the HR data within the Workday Payroll System. This does not include employees whose access to an agency's owned time and attendance application is limited or controlled to only permit them to enter their own time or supervisors who validate or approve the time of subordinates.
